Grandparents are Winners!

We are very pleased to announce the release of our newest book, Grandfather's Wrinkles, which was featured at Barnes & Noble, and which Dr. Laura Schlessinger, on her radio program, called "an adorable book that puts aging in the context of fabulous memories."

Grandfather's Wrinkles

By Kathryn England, illustrated by Richard McFarland
32 full color pages, HC, $15.95, 11" x 8.5"

"Every wrinkle holds a treasured memory. In this heartwarming dialogue between Granddad and granddaughter, the lost art of storytelling emerges as the elder recounts the happy events behind his every wrinkle. A positive spin on the aging process sends the message that it's important to appreciate, reflect upon, and enjoy one's journey through life. Beautiful scrapbook-style illustrations enhance and enrich the tale. At a time when communicating by laptop is all but replacing sitting and visiting atop a lap, this new book offers a refreshingly creative way to trip down Memory Lane.... Do yourself a favor: find a lap, connect with someone special, share this book aloud, and get ready to pass along a few wrinkles of your own...."

Grandpa for Sale

by Dotti Enderle and Vicki Sansum, illustrated by T. Kyle Gentry
32 full color pages, hardcover, $15.95, 11" x 8.5"

Grandpa for Sale, which has won the Writers' League of Texas Teddy Children's Book Award, is a Borders Original Voices Selection for October 2007 and continues to garner rave reviews.

Will Lizzie agree to sell Grandpa or are there some things that money just can't buy?

"...comical story... downright amazing illustrations..."

-Akron Beacon Journal

"...stresses the importance of family and friendship over material possessions." -Learning Magazine

"Authors Dotti Enderle and Vicki Sansum settle on a basic concept -- love is something that money can't buy."

-Nick Basbanes in the Orlando Sentinel, the Pittsburgh Tribune-Review, and the Telegram & Gazette News
